COURSE OBJECTIVE

This course explores the emergence, evolution, and future of the tools and organizations that make modern finance possible. Through the study of the history of payments, debt, banking, corporations, markets, derivatives, pensions, insurance companies, and investment funds students will learn why such institutions are organized as they are today. Class discussions and the consideration of related case studies will provide students with modern perspectives and insights regarding how better versions might be designed to tackle the challenges of the 21st century. This course will be of particular interest to students interested in world history, fintech, and financial innovation in general.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides an introduction to one of humanity’s “killer apps” – financial intermediation. Be it a bank, pension plan, insurance company, or investment fund, these organizations are all means by which the world’s savings are used to fund the world’s investments. Each of the tools and organizations studied were invented to overcome the challenges of intermediation. Studying them in historical context tells us about how cultural, geographic, and demographic constraints or endowments have affected their current design and what they might look like in the future.

In each session, a new financial “technology” will be introduced and we will spend some time considering the history its related institutions, how they have changed over time, and what their current incarnations look like today. In doing so, students will be required to think about how design choices impact the stakeholders of various institutions, the path-dependent nature of today’s structures, and how these organizations and tools can be adapted to better suit society’s needs in the future. Classes are in a seminar format with students expected to prepare for discussions by reviewing assigned videos and slides ahead of time.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to complete the following tasks:

- Explain the core functions of financial institutions in plain language
 - Understand variations in institutional design with reference to local challenges and cultures
 - Identify the key roles and processes required to complete those functions
 - Analyze the priorities and concerns of various stakeholder groups
 - Evaluate how existing institutions and their processes meet the needs of their stakeholders

EVALUATION

Learning in this course results primarily from the recorded lectures, the provided course notes, in-class seminar discussions, and researching your cases. Your final grade will be calculated as follows:

Components and Weights

Case Studies	4 cases (groups of 4-5), 10% each	40%
Participation	In-class and via Teams (discussions)	20%
Midterm Exam	(online, via A2L)	20%
Final Exam	(online, via A2L)	20%
Total		100%

Blended Learning Format

This course is offered in a Blended Learning format, which makes use of both synchronous and asynchronous materials. Students are expected to prepare for weekly classes by reviewing the appropriate video segments, reading the supporting slides (see the related links for more details), and thinking through the posted Discussion Questions which will form the basis of our in-person classes.

*The format of live classes is that of a seminar rather than a lecture – come prepared!

COURSE DELIVERABLES

Case Studies (4 x 10% = 40%)

All case studies are available in the required text “Relentless Change” but may include additional questions as provided in specific instructions on A2L. Final reports are to be submitted to electronic drop boxes set up on Avenue (only one submission per group is required) by 11:59pm EST on the dates listed below. Late submissions cannot be accepted. You should make every attempt to form a group within the first two weeks of class so you can begin working together by mid-January.

Participation (20%)

Engagement with the course content will involve thinking deeply and critically about a number of issues related to the form and function of finance and its attendant tools. Students are expected to participate either in-class or via the online discussions (Microsoft Teams) related to the questions posed each week. You do not have to respond to every question (that’s really excessive) but should attempt to make some contribution to our exploration of the various topics under discussion each week.

In-person participation is an essential component of the learning activities in this course and as such, a minimum attendance policy is in place. Attendance of fewer than 4 classes in person will result in a grade penalty of up to 5% per missed class unless some unique accommodation is being provided.

Midterm Exam (20%)

The midterm exam will be a series of short answer questions covering materials from the videos, readings, and class discussions. It will cover the first five topics in the course.

Final Exam (20%)

The final exam will be a series of short answer questions covering materials from the videos, readings, and class discussions. It will cover the last seven topics in the course.

ACTIVITY	DELIVERY	DESCRIPTION	TOOL(S)

Please Note:

1. There will be NO make-up for any missed assessment activity and NO extra credit work will be offered under any circumstance.
2. Marks for all pre-final exam evaluation activities will be posted on Avenue.
3. Your final grade should come through official channels. Hence, marks for final exam will not be posted on Avenue.

COMMUNICATION AND FEEDBACK

Students who wish to correspond with instructors or TAs directly via email must send messages that originate from their official McMaster University email account. This protects the confidentiality and sensitivity of information as well as confirms the identity of the student. Emails regarding course issues should NOT be sent to the Administrative Assistant.

REQUESTING RELIEF FOR MISSED ACADEMIC WORK

In the event of an absence for medical or other reasons, students should review and follow the Academic Regulation in the Undergraduate Calendar “Requests for Relief for Missed Academic Term Work” and the link below;

<http://ug.degroot.mcmaster.ca/forms-and-resources/missed-course-work-policy/>

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity. It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: “Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty”), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at <https://secretariat.mcmaster.ca/university-policies-procedures-guidelines/>

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

- plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one’s own or for which other credit has been obtained.
 - improper collaboration in group work.
 - copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

AUTHENTICITY/PLAGIARISM DETECTION

Some courses may use a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal authenticity and ownership of student submitted work. For courses using such software, students will be expected to submit their work electronically either directly to Turnitin.com or via an online learning platform (e.g. A2L, etc.) using plagiarism detection (a service supported by Turnitin.com) so it can be checked for academic dishonesty.

Students who do not wish their work to be submitted through the plagiarism detection software must inform the Instructor before the assignment is due. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to the plagiarism detection software.

All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, other software, etc.). For more details about McMaster's use of Turnitin.com please go to www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

COURSES WITH AN ON-LINE ELEMENT

Some courses may use on-line elements (e.g. e-mail, Avenue to Learn (A2L), LearnLink, web pages, capa, Moodle, ThinkingCap, etc.). Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of a course using these elements, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course.

The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in a course that uses on-line elements will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure, please discuss this with the course instructor.

CONDUCT EXPECTATIONS

As a McMaster student, you have the right to experience, and the responsibility to demonstrate, respectful and dignified interactions within all of our living, learning and working communities. These expectations are described in the Code of Student Rights & Responsibilities (the "Code"). All students share the responsibility of maintaining a positive environment for the academic and personal growth of all McMaster community members, whether in person or online.

It is essential that students be mindful of their interactions online, as the Code remains in effect in virtual learning environments. The Code applies to any interactions that adversely affect, disrupt, or interfere with reasonable participation in University activities. Student disruptions or behaviours that interfere with university functions on online platforms (e.g. use of Avenue 2 Learn, WebEx or Zoom for delivery), will be taken very seriously and will be investigated. Outcomes may include restriction or removal of the involved students' access to these platforms.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students with disabilities who require academic accommodation must contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS) at 905-525-9140 ext. 28652 or sas@mcmaster.ca to make arrangements with a Program Coordinator. For further information, consult McMaster University's Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities policy.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION FOR RELIGIOUS, INDIGENOUS OR SPIRITUAL OBSERVANCES (RISO)

Students requiring academic accommodation based on religious, indigenous or spiritual observances should follow the procedures set out in the RISO policy. Students should submit their request to their Faculty Office normally within 10 working days of the beginning of term in which they anticipate a need for accommodation or to the Registrar's Office prior to their examinations. Students should also contact their instructors as soon as possible to make alternative arrangements for classes, assignments, and tests.

COPYRIGHT AND RECORDING

Students are advised that lectures, demonstrations, performances, and any other course material provided by an instructor include copyright protected works. The Copyright Act and copyright law protect every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, including lectures by University instructors. The recording of lectures, tutorials, or other methods of instruction may occur during a course. Recording may be done by either the instructor for the purpose of authorized distribution, or by a student for the purpose of personal study. Students should be aware that their voice and/or image may be recorded by others during the class. Please speak with the instructor if this is a concern for you.

EXTREME CIRCUMSTANCES

The University reserves the right to change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances (e.g., severe weather, labour disruptions, etc.). Changes will be communicated through regular McMaster communication channels, such as McMaster Daily News, A2L, or McMaster email.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COURSE POLICIES

Your registration and continuous participation (e.g. on A2L, in the classroom, etc.) to the various learning activities of MBA F703 will be considered to be an implicit acknowledgement of the course policies outlined above, or of any other that may be announced during lecture and/or on A2L. It is your responsibility to read this course outline, to familiarize yourself with the course policies and to act accordingly.
