Course Information

Lectures: Fridays 2:30-5:20pm

NOTE: There are NO TUTORIALS for this course

Course Dates: 09/05/2023 - 12/06/2023

Units: 3.00

Course Delivery Mode: In Person

Course Description: Team work, conflict management, negotiation, giving and receiving feedback, communicating vision and expectations these are all key elements of leadership. Ultimately, succeeding in these areas is about managing relationships. Building upon the foundational elements of leadership already acquired, students will gain a deeper awareness of their own and others' motivations, strengths, filters, and responses to conflict, of and how to apply this knowledge to communicate effectively. Lectures (3 hours) Prerequisite(s): Registration in Level III of the Integrated Business and Humanities Program

Course Evaluation Details

1. Checking In (5%)

Learning Objective:

Starting the course off with reflexivity, setting personal expectations for the course, and helping the Instructor and TA understand students' hopes and desires for the course.

Task:

A lot has happened over the last couple of years! A pandemic, global protests, environmental disasters, and the ups and downs of virtual learning. This assignment is an opportunity for you to pause and reflect on how you are feeling in light of all of this, what you have learned about yourself and the world, and how this shapes your thinking and motivations as you enter into this school year and this course. How can this course help you prepare for the realities of education, the workforce, and the community given all of this rapid social, political and economic change? What should we, as the Instructor and TA for this course, be aware of that will help us create a supportive and effective learning environment for you?

This submission will be worth 5% of your final grade, should be 400-500 words in length and can be written in a personal and informal manner.

2. Class Engagement (15%)

Learning Objective:

Ensuring you get the most out of this course by regularly attending class as often as possible, reviewing the assigned readings, and reflecting on course material and discussions.

Task:

Actively engaging in the class is critical to gaining the most out of the course content and experience and succeeding academically in the overall course.

Students will be responsible for submitting weekly reflection entries on A2L (1-2 paragraphs long) and this will serve as evidence of your engagement in the course. In these entries, you will be invited to reflect on something that stood out to you, challenged you, surprised you, sparked a particular emotion, and/or expanded your thinking from that week's lecture, discussions and/or readings. The writing does not have to be polished, and point form is fine as long as your thoughts are fully articulated.

Entries will not be graded individually; however successful completion of these entries will impact your grade in two ways:

- These weekly entries will serve as very useful raw material for your final paper. In the past, students who took the time to write consistent and thoughtful weekly reflections had the strongest final papers – by far!

- The successful completion of these weekly reflection entries will also count towards 10% of your final grade. This will be evaluated based on: a) how many entries you submit; b) whether or not you submit these weekly (you should submit one entry on A2L per week) or rush them in at the end of the term; and, c) overall evidence that your reflections demonstrate you are meaningfully engaging with and thinking through the course content.

3. Autobiography Review and Reflection (25%)

Learning Objective:

Engage in a reflective exploration of leadership, relationships and service principles by critically analyzing a published autobiography and apply insights to your own personal and professional journey.

Task:

In this assignment, you will have the opportunity to select a published autobiography from a person of your choosing. The selected autobiography should provide valuable insights into the person's journey, challenges, and lessons as it relates to leadership, interpersonal relationships and communication, and/or community service. The autobiography must be published by a reputable publisher, at minimum 150 pages in length, and it can be in physical and/or virtual format.

If you are unsure about the relevance/appropriateness of your autobiography, you can consult with your TA.

Your task involves crafting a critical reflection on the autobiography. Please note that this is not a mere summary of the book. Rather, you are expected to provide a thorough analysis of the book's content, themes, and relevance, all from your personal and informed perspective and in relation to reflection prompts that will be provided to you along with the full assignment guidelines. The prompts will be asking you to engage with questions that ask you to connect the thoughts and reflections of the author, with your own perspectives and experiences.

Your critical book review should be 1000-1200 words in length and will be worth 25% of your final grade.

Further direction will be provided on this assignment.

4. Group Project: IBH Community Service (30%)

Learning Objectives:

How to effectively navigate relationships in a group to successfully accomplish a task and shared community service goal.

Tasks:

The class will be randomly split into small groups (5-6 students per group). Each group will design and execute an initiative that will be of service to first year IBH students. You have quite a lot of flexibility in terms of what the initiative itself is (e.g. workshop, resource, event, learning experience); however you are encouraged to design an initiative that provides you with an opportunity to have some face-to-face time with the first year students. (Note: Since I (the Instructor) teach the first years in the fall term in the IBH 1BB3 class, it may be possible to offer some of the 1BB3 class time for your initiative).

The overarching goals of your initiative should be to offer first year IBH students with an opportunity to learn about and/reflect on topics/skills of relevance to our course (e.g. leadership, interpersonal communication, relationships, professional development, critical reflection, etc.).

One of the key objectives of this assignment is to create an opportunity to develop effective collaboration and communication skills with your peers by working on the project itself. As such, a significant portion of your grade (10%) for this assignment will be determined by a peer evaluation of your contributions.

The other 20% of your grade will be based upon a project portfolio that you submit as a group that will summarize your group project activities, accomplishments and learnings. We will be using your project portfolio to assess the following:

- A. Evidence that all group members were equally engaged throughout the process:
- B. Effective project management skills, demonstrated through outputs such as timelines, delegation of roles and responsibilities, etc.
- C. Demonstrated application of knowledge and skills discussed in this course, such as reflexivity, effective communication, community accountability, conflict resolution, etc.
- D. Effective execution of initiative, as evidenced by achieving objectives outlined by the group, positive feedback from participants, high return on investment of time and resources, etc.

Note: The lecture slot on October 20th will be dedicated to a collaborate workshop where each group will be tasked with providing a 5-10 minute presentation on their group's initiative planning and progress to date. The class will then be invited to share feedback and offer suggestions for any outstanding issues the group is trying to sort out for their initiative.

Further direction, including a grading rubric, will be provided during class.

5. Final Reflection Paper (25%)

Learning Objective:

Reflecting on and synthesizing learning from the entirety of the course, and how this shapes your personal philosophy that will guide your leadership journey ahead.

Tasks:

As a final assignment, you will be asked to describe your own personal beliefs and philosophy around leadership, incorporating many of the concepts you learned throughout the course. You will be encouraged to draw on content from your weekly reflection entries, however this should not be a simple regurgitation of the entries, but rather, a summary and analysis of them.

Further direction will be provided partway through the semester. This should be 1200-1500 words in length and will count towards 25% of the course.

Grading Scale

Grade	Equivalent Grade Point	Equivalent Percentages
A+	12	90-100
A	11	85-89
A-	10	80-84
B+	9	77-79

Late Assignments

Unless otherwise stated, all written assignments are due by 11:59pm on the due date indicated on the course outline.

Late assignments will be subject to a 3% per day late penalty (includes weekends and holidays) for up to seven (7) days. After this date, no assignments will be accepted and a grade of zero (0) will be applied.

Extensions for course work that will not incur a late penalty must be approved by the Instructor before the due date. Extensions are generally only granted for illness, emergencies, and extenuating circumstances. Note that this is distinct from the McMaster Student Absence Form (MSAF) submission process.

Generative AI: Some Use Permitted

If students choose to use generative AI in this course, it must be used in accordance with the guidelines outlined for each assessment, and so long as the use of generative AI is referenced and cited following citation instructions given during the course (further details will be provided during the course). Use of generative AI outside assessment guidelines or without citation will constitute academic dishonesty. It is the student's responsibility to be clear on the limitations for use for each assessment and to be clear on the expectations for citation and reference and to do so appropriately.

APPROVED ADVISORY STATEMENTS

Academic Integrity

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity. It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy.

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

- plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
- improper collaboration in group work.
- copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

Authenticity / Plagiarism

Some courses may use a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal authenticity and ownership of student submitted work. For courses using such software, students will be expected to submit their work electronically either directly to Turnitin.com or via an online learning platform (e.g. Avenue to Learn, etc.) using plagiarism detection (a service supported by Turnitin.com) so it can be checked for academic dishonesty.

Students who do not wish their work to be submitted through the plagiarism detection software must inform the Instructor before the assignment is due. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to the plagiarism detection software. All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, other software, etc.). For more details about McMaster's use of Turnitin.com please go to www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

Courses with an On-line Element

Some courses may use on-line elements (e.g. e-mail, Avenue to Learn, LearnLink, web pages, capa, Moodle, ThinkingCap, etc.). Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of a course using these elements, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in a course that uses on-line elements will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

Online Proctoring

Some courses may use online proctoring software for tests and exams. This software may require students to turn on their video camera, present identification, monitor and record their computer activities, and/or lock/restrict their browser or other applications/software during tests or exams. This software may be required to be installed before the test/exam begins.

Conduct Expectations

As a McMaster student, you have the right to experience, and the responsibility to demonstrate, respectful and dignified interactions within all of our living, learning and working communities. These expectations are described in the Code of Student Rights & Responsibilities (the "Code"). All students share the responsibility of maintaining a positive environment for the academic and personal growth of all McMaster community members, whether in person or online.

It is essential that students be mindful of their interactions online, as the Code remains in effect in virtual learning environments. The Code applies to any interactions that adversely affect, disrupt, or interfere with reasonable participation in University activities. Student disruptions or behaviours that interfere with university functions on online platforms (e.g. use of Avenue 2 Learn, WebEx or Zoom for delivery), will be taken very seriously and will be investigated. Outcomes may include restriction or removal of the involved students' access to these platforms.

Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities who require academic accommodation must contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS) at 905-525-9140 ext. 28652 or sas@mcmaster.ca to make arrangements with a Program Coordinator. For further information, consult McMaster University's Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities policy.

Requests for Relief for Missed Academic Term Work

In the event of an absence for medical or other reasons, students should review and follow the Academic Regulation in the Undergraduate Calendar "Requests for Relief for Missed Academic Term Work" and the link below;

<http://ug.degroote.mcmaster.ca/forms-and-resources/missed-course-work-policy/>

Academic Accommodation for Religious, Indigenous, or Spiritual Observances (RISO)

Students requiring academic accommodation based on religious, indigenous or spiritual observances should follow the procedures set out in the RISO policy. Students should submit their request to their Faculty Office normally within 10 working days of the beginning of term in which they anticipate a need for accommodation or to the Registrar's Office prior to their examinations. Students should also contact their instructors as soon as possible to make alternative arrangements for classes, assignments, and tests.

Copyright and Recording

Students are advised that lectures, demonstrations, performances, and any other course material provided by an instructor include copyright protected works. The Copyright Act and copyright law protect every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, including lectures by University instructors.

The recording of lectures, tutorials, or other methods of instruction may occur during a course. Recording may be done by either the instructor for the purpose of authorized distribution, or by a student for the purpose of personal study. Students should be aware that their voice and/or image may be recorded by others during the class. Please speak with the instructor if this is a concern for you.

Extreme Circumstances

The University reserves the right to change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances (e.g., severe weather, labour disruptions, etc.). Changes will be communicated through regular McMaster communication channels, such as McMaster Daily News, Avenue to Learn and/or McMaster email.
